

October 4, 2007

Dear friends,

Well, my school year got off to a bit of a rough start when I rear-ended a lady the day before the first day of classes, and then I caught a cold which hindered me from doing all that I would have preferred during the first week. But I am now fine, and while my car sustained $3700 in damages, my car is worth more than that, so it is currently being repaired.

As for the ministry at Clackamas Community College, we have had 18 different students attend Bible Study so far this term, which is exciting. This week we have begun our Tuesday and Wednesday Bible Studies, and on Wednesday and Thursday we manned an NCM information table on campus. Next week we will participate in Clubs Fair. Please pray for us as we meet both believers and non-believers on campus.

Matt and I are praying about how to effectively reach out to pre-believers on campus, and have scheduled a meeting with three student leaders to discuss possible avenues of outreach. Please be praying for us as we strive to reach those who do not yet believe.

We are hoping to partner with other Portland Metro NCM's for a Spring Break Mission Trip to Russia. I will not be able to personally attend due to the fact that the first weekend of Spring Break is also Easter weekend, and I have worship leading responsibilities at Beavercreek Church that day. However, we have at least 2 students that are potentially interested that Matt (my co-director) can take. The deadline for registration is at the end of October (with at least a $300 deposit), so pray for these students as they prayerfully consider this mission opportunity.

Continue to pray for us as we strive to accomplish our purpose, which is to love God, reach out to all people, and disciple students in Jesus Christ to develop into mature Christians who impact our campus, community, and the world.

Blessings,

Beth England